

NEW ACT QUADRUPLES OLD AGE AID COST HERE

By BOB GUILD
IT FEEDS 569 people in a month. It keeps a large and energetic staff of county employees busy almost to the point of distraction. It has been called everything from a life-saver to a bungling and inept piece of legislation.
But more than anything else, the Old Age Security act, in two short months, has increased the cost of caring for the aged in Orange county by 50 per cent.
This figure was revealed today, when Director Byron Curry of the county welfare department released his report for the month of September.
A total of $18,971.98 was spent during the past month for old age cases, of which $7,953 came from the federal government. The United States pays from $15 a month minimum up to $30 a month on old age cases.

DURING the past month there were 1008 aged cases being cared for by the county welfare department. Only 569 of those were approved old age security cases. The remainder were being given relief just the same, while their cases were being investigated, or while necessary data and information was being secured.
Of those 1008 cases, 439 were being cared for from the county old age budget, but the federal contribution toward upkeep could not be collected for them. Nevertheless, they were 65 years old, needy, and had applied for aid under the old age security act provisions.
Before the passage of the act by the last state assembly, the cost to county and state for old age cases was $10,541.08. This was in a typical month, January, 1936. At that time the county paid 50 per cent of the cost of caring for aged needy, and the state the other 50 per cent.

NOW THE federal government pays 50 per cent, and the county and state split on the balance, but due to the increase caused by the passage of the law, and the larger monthly sum allowed, the county still pays virtually as much as before—and the cost as a whole has nearly doubled.
As a matter of fact, Curry pointed out, in January of 1936 the county did spend $12,994.71, but could only claim its 50 per cent of $10,541.08, due to regulations.
The average per needy case has been increased by about $9. This month's figures show each of the needy cases on the old age security rolls to be receiving an average of $29.51.

WHEN you figure man and wife each can receive this aid, it figures up to a nice sum for a man on the shady side of life to be getting.
And the amazing thing is the last comparison—
The total county welfare case load is only 1400. It cares for blind, children, unemployables, those ineligible for SRA or WPA, and aged. Of these far the greatest number are aged.
Only 43 come under the blind classification, 169 are children, and 183 are county welfare cases at large. So if the bill for relief comes higher this year, it can be laid at the door of the new old age security act.

Vegetable Workers Boost Wage Demands at Parley

INCREASE IS OPPOSED BY GROWERS

Collective Bargaining
Also Asked as Board
Opens Hearing

Mexican vegetable workers today demanded 35 cents per hour as an arbitration board opened a hearing at the courthouse to settle differences between the workers and Japanese growers.

They pleaded that living costs are 20 per cent higher than they were a year ago and that the higher pay rate would not give them a bettered state of living.
Workers also asked recognition of collective bargaining and a grievance committee, elimination of labor contractors, and other concessions. The hearing will continue this afternoon.

DEATH THREATS LAID TO AL, JR.

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Mrs. Al Smith, jr., wife of the son of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, left with Supreme Court Justice James T. Cross today a charge that young Al, jr., threatened to kill her on two occasions. She seeks a legal separation and separate maintenance.

Mrs. Smith testified that the incidents she referred to took place while she and her husband were living in New York City, in 1931 and 1932.
She told Justice Cross that her husband threatened to shoot her one night during the spring of 1932. She said he came into her bedroom with a loaded revolver in his hand.

She said he returned home the following night, repeated the threat, but that she "talked him out of it" and gained possession of the gun.

She testified that in the fall of 1931 young Smith grabbed a knife and chased her all over the house and threatened to kill her. He also cut the telephone wires so she couldn't call for help.

Duce Grooms Son-in-law to Succeed Him

(Copyright, 1936, by Associated Press)
ROME.—Premier Mussolini is grooming his son-in-law, Count Galeazzo Ciano, as his successor, political circles asserted today, and soon may make him head of the Fascist cabinet.

It Duce would remain as dictator under his title of "Capo del Governo" (head of the government), it was reported, and Ciano would retain his present post of foreign minister.

The elevation of Ciano, informed sources declared, will be discussed at a meeting of the Fascist grand council in November.

They pointed out the change would have only a slight practical effect at present, but would furnish the premier with a successor upon his death.

It Duce bears the double title "Capo del Governo e Primo Ministro" (head of the government

Laud Newspaper Civic Service

Calling attention to the fact that Newspaper week is being observed throughout the nation, Santa Ana civic leaders today stressed the community service performed by the newspapers. Their comments follow:

I Cover the City Run

By PAUL BODENHAMER

(Editor's Note: This being Newspaper week, The Journal is publishing a series of brief sketches telling how its various news men work. Today's article takes the reader on a trip with a reporter through civic and governmental offices.)

There isn't any word to describe the collection of offices and activities I'm supposed to cover, so they call it the city run.
It ranges geographically from Terry Halloran's SRA at Second and Broadway to Frank Henderson's schools office at Tenth and Main—a nice brisk walk on a hot day; and it'll be fun when it rains.
Along the way are the city hall, WPA, Chamber of Commerce, farm advisor, agricultural commissioner, Farm bureau, county water board, postoffice, Builders exchange and Business Men's association.

I really get along best with City Auditor Lloyd Banks, because he's a little fellow too. But I could lick him in a fair fight. And I've sassed Howard Wood, who's inches taller.

You won't find me home Monday nights. First and third Monday I sit up with the city councilmen; second and fourth with the board of education. But there is a note of cheer: there are five Mondays in November.

NEW YORK. (AP)—National Chairman John D. M. Hamilton said today that the Republican party was having difficulty raising its campaign fund.

The chairman, at a press conference in which he again linked President Roosevelt's administration with Communism, was asked:

"Yes, we are," the chairman replied, without hesitation. "We haven't had the response which we think is necessary to meet the resources of the New Dealers."

'MUTINY' ON FREIGHTER

Appeals to Maritime Board Made to End Alaska Trouble

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—Thomas G. Plant, chairman of the coast ship owners' committee conducting negotiations with maritime groups, telegraphed the maritime commission today that a "mutiny" had occurred on the steamer Tanana in Dry Spruce Bay, Kodiak Island.

Plant, declaring the engine room crew had shut off the steam and refused to obey the master's orders, appealed to the commission for assistance in the "critical situations."

The Tanana is a small freighter operated by the Alaska Steamship Company.

Plant's telegram to the maritime commission said that master of the vessel had called upon the coast guard to assist him in quelling the mutiny.

The coast guard here said the nearest cutter, The Morris, was at Seward, 200 miles and between 19 and 15 hours away from Dry Spruce bay.

Negotiations continued meanwhile in efforts to reach a settlement of the waterfront dispute before the 15-day truce expires Oct. 15, with little progress reported.

Wind Predicted By Old-timers

Old timers today squinted their eyes against the sun rays and predicted a desert wind.

Contortions of thermometer and barometer at the Knox and Stout Hardware store gave evidence of an approaching disturbance of some kind. The barometer was going down.

The temperature climbed from 83 at 11:30 a. m. today to 89 at 12:15 p. m. Yesterday the low was reached at 11:45 p. m., the reading being 58. The temperature then went up, but declined to 58 again at 3:30 a. m.

Mojave Water Project of Three Counties Is 'Killed'

DEATH KNEEL SOUNDED BY CUTTLE

Says Undue Alarm Was Barrier to Import Of River Flow

The Mojave river water project, as far as Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties are concerned, had "dried up" today.

This plan for transporting Mojave river water for use in the three counties once was "boomed" as a substitute for the Orange county flood control and water conservation program. It was an issue on which many a battle was fought during local campaigns to put over flood control bond issues.

The death knell of the Mojave project was sounded by Francis Cuttle of Riverside, "big shot" water expert of that county. He said the project had been abandoned. Cuttle is chairman of a committee representing the three counties, which has been making a two-year survey of the project's feasibility.

Cuttle blamed "hasty alarm" for failure of the plan.

He said that "had the project gone through without alarm caused largely by people who had no property or financial interest at stake, it is quite likely that a plan could have been worked out whereby those having vested rights to the water of the Mojave river could have had flood dangers removed without expense . . . to themselves, and . . . valuable water could have been put to use to augment failing supplies of the Santa Ana river."

Mojave people, it was reported, feared they would be left without water, and another Owens river valley situation would develop. Engineers differed on the question, some saying the project's expense would be prohibitive, others saying it was within reason.

College Students Use Time Talking About Other Sex

GREENCASTLE, Ind. (AP)—Do College students spend most of their time outside of the classroom talking about the political campaign, the Spanish situation or some other such subject?

"Positively, no," says Professor Paul Fay of the DePaul university psychology department. "They spend most of their 'talking time' in discussions of individuals of the opposite sex."

Says the professor: "A recent survey there shows what they talk about, broken down into percentages: the opposite sex, 15 per cent; college studies, 13; campus affairs (in the abstract), 10; miscellaneous conversation, 10; discussion of the same sex, 10; college sports, 8; organized amusement, 6; food, 7; professors as individuals, 6; general politics, 5; other non-campus news, 5; cultural subjects (other than college studies), 5 per cent."

Permanent Jobs For Teachers?

(Editor's Note: The Journal is presenting daily a series of articles on the amendments which will face the voter on Nov. 11. Today appears the first of three articles dealing with teacher tenure. Tomorrow's article will outline arguments for the amendment.)

By FRANK ORR

Figure this out: A tenure law which the fellow who wrote the tenure law doesn't like, and which would put under tenure teachers who are not now under tenure under the present tenure law.

But it's a fairly accurate statement of some effects of Proposition No. 11, which will stare you in the face from a billboard-size ballot Nov. 3. It's called the instructors' tenure initiative, and adds a section to the state constitution pertaining to hiring and firing of California's school teachers.

The initiative would nullify the present teacher tenure law, since it would place in the constitution provisions for tenure, which is now regulated only by an act of the legislature.

They argue both ways. But the "debate" will have to come later, in other articles.

To get a picture, you have to see a little bit of the situation as it stands today:

Present System
A teacher goes through three years of probationary status, and if the school board which hired her doesn't want her any more, it just doesn't hire her for the next year. But if she's given a contract for her fourth straight year—she's permanent and the

OCEAN FLIER UNREPORTED

NEW YORK. (AP)—Kurt Bjorkvall, 31-year-old Swedish aviator flying alone in an attempted non-stop flight from New York to Stockholm, remained unreported over the Atlantic today, although his red and green monoplane was due off the Irish coast.

His craft, The Pacemaker, carried only a radio receiving set, and there was no possibility of receiving word of his progress except from ships as he swung over the sea.

Bjorkvall's friends here expressed little apprehension for his safety since the Bellanca plane, driven by a 450-horsepower motor, had a cruising speed of only 120 miles an hour, and he was not expected to make full speed because of the headwinds predicted near the Irish coast.

Lettuce Strike Issue Deadlocked

SALINAS. (AP)—The five-week Salinas lettuce workers' strike today deadlocked against an employers' ultimatum of no compromise on the principal issue—preference in employment for union members.

Employers declared: "We believe 'preferential hiring,' in effect 'closed shop,' obtained through intimidation or force, is against all American principles of business and contrary to American custom and law."

Outlaws Shoot Up Fiesta, Kill Two

PUEBLA, Mexico. (AP)—Delayed reports from Ixcapitla said today armed outlaws rode into the town Sunday and turned their guns on fiesta celebrants. Policemen Felicitia Cristino and Julian Torres, a bystander, were killed before residents who returned the invaders' fire drove the attackers off.

SAYS FOKKER DEPOSITION INCORRECT

Elliott Says Contract Specified No Sales to Foreign Powers

WASHINGTON. (AP)—A fierce dispute broke out today over a deposition, attributed to Anthony H. G. Fokker, airplane manufacturer, that Elliott Roosevelt, 25-year-old son of the President, contracted in 1934 to sell 50 military planes to Russia for a $500,000 commission.

Soon after aides of the senate munitions committee had made public the sworn statement, which said the sale was never consummated because the price asked of the Russians was too high, young Roosevelt denied he ever agreed to sell military planes to any government.

Explains Contract
He contracted with Fokker, he said, to represent the aviation man in the sale of commercial transport planes to private foreign corporations. There was a specific stipulation, he said, that he was not to sell to any government.

Young Roosevelt, who is at Oklahoma City, told The Fort Worth (Tex.) Star-Telegram in a telephone interview that such a figure as $500,000 for a commission was never mentioned.

Whereas the deposition to Fokker said the President's son had been paid $5000 in cash under the unfulfilled contract, Roosevelt said he never received a dollar personally, although $5000 went to a salesman associated with him.

He said he himself terminated the contract without trying to sell a plane.

"I have a copy of the contract," he told The Fort Worth paper. "All this is down in black and white and I shall be glad at any time to present it to the munitions committee along with a complete re-

ELLIOTT SAYS NYE OKEH

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Elliott Roosevelt said today he thought Chairman Nye of the senate munitions committee had done "exactly the right thing" in releasing to the press a deposition by Anthony H. G. Fokker concerning an alleged contract to sell military planes to the Russian government.

"If I were in Mr. Nye's position and someone accused me of withholding facts from the public I would certainly release whatever sworn matter was in my hands," the President's second son said.

"I have no quarrel with Mr. Nye. I do intend, however, to consult with attorneys regarding this whole matter. I believe my rights as a private citizen of the United States have been infringed."

STRATTON BACKS UP ROOSEVELT

SANTA MONICA. (AP)—G. W. Stratton, sales executive of an airplane manufacturing concern here, said that he received $5000 for expenses from Anthony H. G. Fokker in 1934.

"To my knowledge Elliott Roosevelt did not receive any money," said Stratton, revealing that he had been employed by Fokker in 1934 to lay out a general sales campaign.

REFUSED AID ON WAGE OF $3 WEEKLY

"Accidental death" was the verdict of a coroner's jury yesterday on a man who died as he lived—doing his level best to earn a living without help from anyone.

In the county relief department's files today lies an uncashed check for $12, returned by Ben Helmsing of Costa Mesa, who didn't feel right about taking government aid when he had a job which paid him $3 a week.

Series of Jobs

Helmsing was 65 years old last week when he fell beneath the wheels of a heavy bean harvester on a ranch near Costa Mesa and was fatally injured.

His work there was just another in the series of jobs with which he managed to take care of himself almost all the way through the depression.

Hit hardest by unemployment two years ago, he finally decided, after much hesitation, to ask for assistance. He got it promptly when officials learned about his case.

Returns Check

But several months later he got a job. It wasn't much of a job—just selling corn at a roadside stand part time. It paid him $3 a week.

Soon after he started that job, he got an envelope in the mail, containing a $12 relief check.

"What shall I do with it?" he asked a friend.

"Why, it's made out to you; you can cash it," the friend answered.

"No," was the answer. "I'm working now."

So he returned the check.

board can't do a thing barring misconduct. The whole machinery is handled by the local school board, and applies only to teachers in schools with 850 pupils or more in average daily attendance.

The initiative measure, besides taking the tenure laws from the statute books and putting them in the constitution, provides for taking that "firing" privilege away from the school board and putting it into the hands of a three-man commission, appointed by the governor for what amounts to a life term.

That board's control of firing is comparable with the board of equalization's power to determine exclusively what liquor establishments will be given licenses. And it would apply to all teachers, no matter what the school's size.

Those three men, according to the law, are elected—but that's a joker. More of that in the "objections" department, No. 3 in this series.

The amendment also: Provides a two-year probationary period under the state board for instructors except those now permanent.

Specifies causes of dismissal, and vests the state and local boards with power to hear charges, and permits overruling of local board's decisions by the state trio.

Who's behind it? The California Federation of Classroom Teachers, composed principally of teachers in the metropolitan schools of San Francisco and Los Angeles, and an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor.

Who opposes it? The California Teachers' association (cordially disliked by the C. F. C. T.) and the author of the present tenure system, E. B. Couch, besides other advocates of tenure for teachers, including the P. T. A. and the American Association of University Women.

Tomorrow's article will present arguments in favor of passage of the amendment.

futation of all the statements allegedly made by Mr. Fokker."

'Excessive Price'

Fokker was quoted as saying he considered the price asked of the Russians for the 50 planes was "notably excessive."

"He (Fokker) had been persuaded by Mr. (Elliott) Roosevelt and Mr. Roosevelt's associate, Mr. Stratton, that Mr. Roosevelt had enough influence with the Import and Export Bank and the Russian purchasing commission, then in the country, to swing the deal at that excessive price," the deposition said.

It quoted Carter Tiffany, of New York, Fokker's American business representative, as declaring that a third party had told him that President Roosevelt approved the contract, but put his foot down on a plan for his son and Fokker to go abroad to sell planes.

Blames It on G. O. P.

Fokker, the document said, had wanted Roosevelt to make the trip "to attempt to sell airplanes to various foreign governments, counting on the willingness of high foreign officials to receive Mr. Roosevelt as the son of the American President."

Young Roosevelt, who declared that "this story comes originally from Republican sources," declared:

"With regard to all conversations and reported conversations which had reference to my father, I desire to state that they are false in their entirety and that at no time did the question of my father's participation or knowledge of the transaction enter into my discussion with Mr. Fokker."

Deposition Year Old

The deposition was made public unexpectedly here last night. Murkison committee aides said it was taken Sept. 12, 1935, and was made public on instructions from Chairman Nye (R., N. D.) because of published charges that information was being withheld from the public. There was no immediate comment from the White House.

The 50 planes involved were of the Lockheed Electra types, Fokker being a sales agent for that plane, in addition to his other interests.

Under questioning by investigators who took the deposition, Fokker was said to have described Elliott Roosevelt and a business associate as "chiselers" because "no action had been taken toward the successful sale of Lockheed planes by Mr. Roosevelt and his associates."

'Heat' Threatened

At another point in the deposition an associate of young Roosevelt was represented as threatening to turn "the heat" on if Fokker did not go through with the contract. This man was identified in the deposition only as "Mr. Stratton" but Elliott Roosevelt said J. W. Stratton, an airplane salesman, was associated with him in the sales agreement.

The deposition said that Tiffany, Fokker's representative, "stated in Mr. Fokker's presence that he, Mr. Tiffany, had complained to Mr. Stratton that he did not like the contract because it was one sided against Mr. Fokker and entirely in favor of Mr. Roosevelt."

Tiffany said, the document continued, "that Mr. Stratton had informed him that he had better go through with the contract and that they had contracts with other people who had also not liked those contracts but had gone through with them after Mr. Stratton had turned on the heat."

Check Never Cashied

"Mr. Fokker stated his satisfaction with Mr. Tiffany's method of concluding the contract in the way he did, involving a cash payment of $5000 for Mr. Roosevelt, and the payment of a further check of $6666 through a brokerage house which it was difficult for Mr. Roosevelt to accept in view of the President's dispute with Wall street at the time."

"Mr. Tiffany and Mr. Fokker

GIANNINI VISIT STARTS TALK

Was A. P. Giannini, founder and president of Bank of America, here Monday only on a routine visit, or did he come also in connection with the reported First National bank deal?

Business men were asking that question today when it became known that the famous banker conferred with the local advisory board of Bank of America. Many felt there was a significance in his visit, coming shortly after it had been reported Bank of America was attempting to buy control of the First National.

C. A. Warren, manager of the Santa Ana branch of Bank of America, said Giannini's visit had nothing to do with the First National, and that the bank head was meeting with all advisory boards in the southern district this month.

W. B. Williams, cashier of the First National, said the Bank of America did not contact officers of that institution.

CIVIL SERVICE PLAN SCORED

"Every city and county civil service commission in the state of California is unalterably opposed to the passage of proposition 7 this November."

That was the opening statement of Eli Foster, chairman of the Long Beach civil service commission, addressing members of the Orange County Peace Officers' association this noon at Jack Fisher park.

He gave two reasons for this opposition—one that the civil service amendment on the ballot is poorly drawn, and second that it "destroys the very fundamentals of the merit system."

Fred Couch, retired identification expert of Long Beach, paid high tribute to the Orange county bureau of identification which, he said, was one of the finest in the county, and to its head, Herman Zabel, whom he classified as one of the outstanding men in the nation in that line of work.

Seek Reversal of Field Judgment

Reversal of Justice of the Peace Kenneth E. Morrison's decision granting $483.07 damages to Isador Field of Santa Ana and Anaheim in a recent action was sought today in an appeal being fought before Superior Judge H. G. Ames.

The S. F. Fusco company brought the appeal, after it had been reversed in its suit against Field for $110 it claimed was due the company.

Field in a cross-complaint claimed the Fusco company had contracted to buy the orange crop from his grove in Anaheim, for a purchase price of $1400, and that it had paid $110 down. Later, he said, the company broke the contract, and he was forced to sell his oranges at a loss.

The justice court decision was handed down on June 30. S. E. Kaufman is representing the Fusco company. Franklin G. West is appearing for Field.

both stated that the check had never been cashed or returned, but that Mr. Tiffany had finally stopped payment on it."

Asked Release

Elliott Roosevelt said that in May, 1934, he asked to be released from the contract with Fokker.

"He wanted to go through with it," Roosevelt said, "and I refused and he released me. I believe he has held it against me, and that may be an explanation of this deposition."

"Some time in May of that year the Fokker organization in New York mailed me a check for $6,666.66. I notified them I was not accepting it and was tearing it up; that the contract was off. I believe the bank was then notified to stop payment on the check."

Salary Agreement

He declared the contract had provided that he was to receive $20,000 salary for one year, with $30,000 salary for the second year if mutually agreeable.

Elliott Roosevelt now is associated with the radio interests of William Randolph Hearst, publisher.

Fokker, 46, is regarded in aviation circles as one of the most skilled airplane designers in the world.

CHEST REPORTS MORE GAINS

Encouraged by the achievement of 36 per cent of the goal at the second report meeting Tuesday noon, volunteers in the Community Chest campaign met again for a luncheon meeting today noon at the Elks club.

Division No. 1, Mrs. E. D. White, colonel, was the honor division for the day, the colonel and her majors acting as hostesses to the workers.

The Chest today passed the half-way mark, with 51 per cent of the $35,656 goal achieved. Today 413 subscriptions totaling $5245 were reported, making the total sum $18,128. In the residential division the high mark today was made by division No. 4, of which Mrs. D. G. Tidball is chairman. The division reported achievement of 86 per cent of its quota.

Leading department of the campaign at the Tuesday report was the federal division with Frank Harwood as chairman which had reported 70 per cent of quota. Greatest increase over the previous report in the residential division was made by Mrs. W. H. Spurgeons division No. 2, which advanced from 8 per cent on the first day to 37 per cent at the second report.

Workers were encouraged by reports of 100 per cent or more of quota turned in by the following seven teams: 1-D-5, Mrs. Caroline S. Perkins, captain; 2-A-3, Mrs. Laura McNaught, captain; 3-A-4, Miss Effie D. White, captain; 4-D-8, Mrs. Robert Horn, captain; 4-D-6, Mrs. Edna Edmund, captain; 4-E-4, Mrs. L. H. Banks, captain, and 4-F-4, Thomas J. Hunter, captain.

Motion pictures of St. Mary's 10-0 football victory over Coach Leonard (Stub) Allison's Berkeley Stars, will be shown University of California alumni of Orange county at 12:15 p. m. tomorrow in the Y. M. C. A. basement.

They are the second of a series to be secured by John Lutz, California alumnus, during the 1936 football season. Last week Lutz showed pictures of California's double victory over College of Pacific and the California Aggies.

and market conditions do not warrant it.

Stuart Strathman, representative of citrus growers during the recent strike, and once proposed as the vegetable men's representative on the arbitration board, appeared today as the grower spokesman at the hearing. M. Sasaki was the other official representative. Lucas Lucio, Pablo de la Cruz and Esteban Muniz were workers' representatives.

Tomato Prices Up

Ross Crane, assistant farm advisor, testified this morning that the berry crop this year was not satisfactory, that tomatoes were damaged by pin worm and other pests, but that the price was better than that of last year; and that peppers were damaged by weevil.

No marketable tomatoes went to waste this season, he said, with canneries, eastern markets, and the Los Angeles market consuming the supply. Better prices were due to the pro-rate, he reported.

Both sides in the controversy agreed today that whatever award the board makes will apply to all crops grown by the Japanese vegetable men, and that the wage will be retroactive to Sept. 1.

Child Labor Opposed

Workers asked that the wage rate set by the board be kept into force until July 1, 1938.

For more regular work, with Orange county residents given preference; a nine-hour day, payment in cash rather than in checks; guarantee of a full day's work when a man is called to work; and elimination of child labor.

They asked that the arbitration board request the United States department of labor to make a thorough study of labor and living conditions in the county.

Under the proposed wage scale offered by workers, pickers and general laborers would be paid 35 cents per hour; packers, 45 cents; irrigators and drivers, 40 cents; and tractor operators, 50 cents.

SOIL SAVING PROGRAM IS PROPOSED

Seven suggestions of Orange county farmers for improvements of the 1937 agricultural conservation program over that of 1936 were placed today before a regional conference of 11 western states in Salt Lake City.

At the conference the suggestions and those from other counties to be digested and reported to a national conference from which the 1937 farm aid program is to emerge. Local suggestions were developed last week at a meeting in the Farm bureau assembly hall.

Of greatest importance to Orange county because of its particular type of crops was the suggestion that double cropping be allowed and encouraged, and that payments be allowed when a soil building crop follows a soil depleting crop in the same year on the same land.

If adopted, this plan would provide benefit payments to farmers who cover crop between crops of sugar beets or lima beans.

Other suggestions were for soil building allowance when bulky organic manure is applied to the land; a payment for planned volunteer cover crops (weeds); and a plan whereby the producer will know farther ahead what the payments will be and the method to be followed in order to qualify.

Farmers asked this so that they might plan their farm programs. It was suggested also that the area protected by a windbreak, rather than the area covered by it, be made the basis for payments that an allowance be made for reclamation of alkali spots; and that a greater proportion of the 1937 payments go for planting soil building crops as compared with payments for diversion from soil-depleting crops.

Townsend
News, Views
By WALTER R. ROBB

(This is a non-political, non-partisan column, dealing in Townsend news and views, and written by a prominent Townsend leader. Any opinions expressed herein are not necessarily those of The Journal.)

Monday, in the Los Angeles courtroom of Municipal Judge Wilbur Curtis, four asserted Communist sympathizers were standing trial, according to the Examiner.

Mrs. Belle Treadway, a prospective juror, was being examined when Defense Attorney Grover Johnson asked her the question as to whether she had any objections to the tenets of Communism, or the platform of the Communist Party.

Mrs. Treadway quickly replied, "I am against any organization or party, which is not for the American flag of government and the American flag!" Jeers, hoots and catcalls immediately came from the audience.

And the Herald Express of Oct. 6 carries the report of United States Senator Rush D. Holt, Democrat of West Virginia, being forced to discontinue a speech begun in a crowded courtroom by the boos and catcalls coming from portions of the audience in disagreement with his remarks.

Senator Holt, commenting on the incident, said, "I am indeed sorry we are getting to the place where mob rule can destroy free speech."

The writer quotes the gist of these two news items, illustrative of the attitudes assumed by the audiences of both the Atlantic and the Pacific coast regions when they are in disagreement with speakers addressing them. It seems difficult to imagine the American people having strayed so far from their former attitudes in the early history of this country, when free and unrestrained speech was but a new privilege, accorded the people.

These two incidents are illustrative of what Dr. Francis E. Townsend, for a considerable period, has observed developing. Such attitudes are not the spirit of true Americanism, and to the exact degree of their departure from that spirit, they are in antagonism to the patriotic spirit of Townsendism.

The threat of Communism is real, but not any more real than is the threat of Fascism. Both forms of government are destructive of the rights of the people. Both are dictatorial and invest in rulers powers which in the American form of government are vested in the people. Both Fascism and Communism, in order to exist as governing forces, are under a compulsion to divorce the people from the right to express their opinions, through the mediums of free speech and a free press. The doctrines of Townsendism could never have been preached and spread into the life of a people dominated by anything less than the full and free right to speak and write, as we do in America. The Townsendites are schooled to understand and value, as do few other organizations, the splendor of American privileges.

But Townsendites are not blind to the fact that a new age has dawned, or is about to dawn; and that America, if she would save her people from the disasters now prevalent in the countries of Europe, must be awake to the peril with the new age, or else perish with the other nations falling into the hands of despots.

THORN
FLESH
By GLENN L. THORNE

See where the federal bureau of investigation says they ought to have everyone's fingerprints for identification purposes.

Which is not a bad idea. Take Junior, for instance: teach him all about fingerprints along with his reading and writing, and then when a stone from a slingshot goes through a neighbor's window he can demand the stone be examined for his fingerprints. Or, if the cookie jar was found empty he could say, "Nope, the swirls in that print differ radically from mine! See?"

Adults would always have their rubber stamp, seal, or whatever you want to call your fingerprints, right in their pocket with them. Anonymous letters could be checked up; Dad could see who used his car without putting in oil; mother could tell who raided the icebox; sister could tell who'd used her fountain pen and ruined the point.

Everybody would have a job. Either taking fingerprints, classifying and filing them—or in the glove business.

All in favor will please put their fingerprints on the dotted line.

Arnold, Costa Mesa; H. T. Keefe, Garden Grove; R. H. Knighten, Newport Beach; Harold C. Bak, net, Downey; A. G. Mummy, Laguna Beach, and Arthur F. Wirtz, and Martin E. Danner, Orange.

Brick Dust

Here and There With The Journal's
Rambling County Editor
By I. N. (BRICK) GAINES

SCREAMS AND shouts from outraged readers that I've been writing too much about boats and—er, and fishing, are going to bring results. Right on the spur of the moment, the best I can do is a little skit entitled, "Who, Why, What?" or "Who's Been Pulling Our Uncle Samuel's Beard?"

This delicious little bit, donated by a woman reader who requested that her name be omitted, opens and closes, if you want to be particular, in the offices of the National Re-employment service. Here's what our reader remarks:

It sounded like two Gracie Allens. One, you'll admit, is bad enough. But two—

A pretty stenographer was talking to a middle-aged woman who wanted a job. Classification of the applicant seemed difficult, but Uncle Sam's representative, overcoming all obstacles, was right on the job. The dialogue, with a few omissions, went like this:

Steno—"When did you work last?"

Applicant—"Oh I always work, I'm not lazy."

Steno—"We'll put down a year ago."

A—"I was a cook two years ago for a month."

S—"Did you get paid, and how much? Did you get fired?"

A—"The lady went back to Pasadena, but I got $30. I didn't leave, she left me."

S—"Are you a waitress?"

A—"Oh yes, but I want to be a clerk, you know, a saleslady."

S—"Well, then, can you care for children?"

A—"Sure, I have five."

S—"What did you ever sell?"

A—"I sold some dishes, I painted them."

S—"You did? We will soon have you classified now." She thumbed rapidly through a large book.

S—"The only classification of anyone who paints china is 'art teacher,'" she finally said, "I guess we will call you that."

Then my reader says she met the applicant in the hall. "Did you get a classification?" she asked.

"Oh, yes," the job-seeker answered. "I want to be a saleslady, but I'm an experienced waitress, so they classified me as an art teacher!"

And now we'll jump over to Bolina, where, residents claim, one of the few remaining real "country" stores is located.

Fifty years ago this store was opened at the corner of First and Wright streets, long before there was any Bolina. Ranchers came from far and near to trade butter, eggs and hay and grain for farm implements and sugar and flour. It wasn't unusual for the storekeeper to come out of the deal owing his customer money.

It was a friendly place, that store. Ranchers would meet to talk about the weather and exchange views on national politics and the price of grain. Although ranch houses were well scattered in those days, it was hard to find a hitching post—which reminds me of Santa Ana today.

Through the passing years that store has been modernized, along with the rest of the country. "Streamlined" now, with gasoline pumps replacing hitching racks and watering trough, the spirit of bygone days still pervades the atmosphere. Saturday is still "the" shopping day.

Mothers still pick up a shirt for Johnnie and a pair of stockings for Susie—silkies, now, though. The old man buys a sweater, or one of these here new-fangled leather jackets, and as they pass the magazine stand they pick out their reading for the week. Sauntering to the rear of the store, someone decides a new screen is needed for the back door at home, and Dad buys a new lock for the henhouse. They pick up the latest aluminum gadget, daughter buys stick and cold cream and grandmother lays in a supply of castor oil and a hot water bottle and meat and groceries are purchased to last the family several days.

When shopping is concluded there comes that pleasant period when folks stand around and talk about the weather and the best way to plant those dahlia bulbs—you know how it is!

What I've been trying to lead up to is the fact that the same folks have been trading at that store for the past 50 years! In some cases, the old customers are gone, but their children still come in on Saturday night.

For the past 16 years, I. D. (Jack) Wallingford has owned the store. He is ably assisted by Louie Bauer, who's been there 26 years. They know everybody, and everybody knows them, and although they may be called upon to sell an automobile tire instead of a new set of harness, they're still running their country store!

OIL DRILLING CAMPAIGN FORECAST FOR PLACENTIA AREA

15 NEW WELLS FOR UNION IS RUMOR

New Field Development Seen in Leasing Rush; Drill at Anaheim

PLACENTIA.—With increased interest reported by major oil companies in taking over many leases in the Richfield and Yorba Linda districts, and one company reported planning a huge development program, an oil boom reminiscent of early days in the local oil fields was forecast by oil men here today.

Chief interest of oil men today was in the rumor that the Union Oil company, one of the pioneer developers of the Richfield area, is planning to drill at least 15 wells. Recently this company drilled three wells on the Chapman property, with the latest reported just put on the pump, and permits for three additional holes have just been issued by the state oil and gas division.

Forecast Campaign Completion of a good well on the Chapman property in the latest well, most westerly of any drilled for some time, will result in an intensive campaign to the west of the present productive area, it was reported.

Another late development in the local producing area is a leasing campaign by the Chiksan Oil company, with officials reported to be taking many leases in the Atwood, or Richfield, town area. This district has remained idle since some development by the Superior Oil company several years ago, when a number of wells were drilled south of the railroad tracks. Considerable production was realized from the Superior's drilling campaign, it was reported, and the latest move by the Chiksan is expected to bring further production to light.

Watch Drilling Some of the earliest development in the Richfield field was in the community of Atwood, and many companies will watch with interest attempts of the Chiksan to obtain oil in paying quantities on sizeable blocks of land obtained for drilling purposes.

Meantime, several miles east of the established Richfield area, the West Coast Refining company's Community No. 1 is reported past the 1000-foot mark. This well, situated on a large community lease on the Yorba and other properties, would prove a large area if production were obtained. It is about one mile north of a recent unsuccessful well drilled by the Standard Oil company.

Yorba Linda Active Reports from the active Yorba Linda area indicate that property owners are leasing to several companies, with officials planning immediate development. A rumor that the Continental Oil company's Carlton Community No. 1 came in as a strong gusher late last week and is producing a small quantity of oil was not confirmed today. Rumors also were to the effect that water had broken into several of the Yorba Linda wells, all of which are being drilled between 2700 and 3200 feet.

Owners of property north of the city of Yorba Linda were said to be taking an optimistic view of production reported obtained in the well on the Todd ranch, at the north end of Eureka avenue. The well is said to have been cleaned out, after being idle for several years, and to have produced 35 barrels in about three hours after a perforating job.

Lease at Anaheim Following intensive geophysical tests south of Anaheim, the Hillman-Long interests are reported to have signed a lease with the city of Anaheim for development of city property at Placentia and Vermont avenues.

According to the lease, actual drilling is to start by Feb. 1, is to run for five years and will return a one-sixth royalty to the city in case production is obtained. The Hillman-Long group is also paying a $5 per acre monthly rental on the property, it was reported.

This action on the part of the Los Angeles operators is expected to start a rush for other leases in the Placentia-Laguna area. Some time ago are thought to have indicated presence of at least some oil in that district.

Faculty to Address
New Association

More than 100 alumni of the University of California at Los Angeles will gather here tomorrow night to hear Capt. Paul Perigord of the U. C. L. A. faculty and to form a permanent Bruin alumni association for Orange county.

The meeting will follow dinner in the banquet room of the Green Cat cafe at 6:30 p. m. Reservations are being made with Claude C. Blakemore, 1015 North Parton street, acting secretary.

Capt. Perigord is professor of French civilization at U. C. L. A. and is an international authority on world problems. He was a member of the French high commission during the World War.

With the speaker will come Bill Ackerman, graduate manager of the Westwood institution; David F. Folz, alumni president; John E. Canada, alumni secretary; and Bob Schroeder, student body president and football player.

Invitations have been mailed to 800 U. C. L. A. alumni living in Orange county, Blakemore said. Following speeches and a business meeting, motion pictures of the U. C. L. A. campus and recent football games will be shown.

BAND STARTS REHEARSALS THURSDAY

Will Prepare for Its Appearance Nov. 11
in Parade Here

The Santa Ana municipal band will launch its 1936 rehearsal season tomorrow night. Members of the band and others who wish to try out will gather at 7 p. m. in the school board building, 1012 North Main street, it was announced today by Leland Auer, director.

Rehearsals this fall will be aimed at preparation for the band's appearance in the Armistice day parade Nov. 11 in this city, under sponsorship of the city. Rehearsals are sponsored by the adult education department of the city schools. Rehearsals will be held regularly on Thursday evenings.

Auer said anyone in the county who plays a band instrument, with the exception of high school students, is eligible for the band. Harry Hanson is president of the band organization, having served in that capacity since it was formed 14 years ago. W. W. Harrington has been treasurer for the same period. Auer has conducted the band for the past four years.

Water Committee To Meet Friday

The first meeting of the Associated Chamber of Commerce committee of five appointed by Chairman Willis Warner of the Orange county water district board will be held at the water district office in Santa Ana, Friday evening, J. W. Crill, committee man, announced today.

The committee appointed to contact the various county water groups to study the feasibility of obtaining the Metropolitan water for the county will make plans for the study of this meeting. Members of the committee, in addition to Crill, are Ted Craig, Bruce Donald, Smiley, Orange, Ross Shafer, Tustin, and D. J. Dodge, Costa Mesa.

Less Pay for New City Employees

When new men are accepted for day labor or mechanical work in the city water, street and park departments, they will be paid a lower rate than employees of longer standing.

That was the implication of a resolution adopted by the city council Monday night in declaring that a salary resolution adopted early in the fiscal year is a scale of wages, but not binding on the council. While the resolution apparently grants power to alter salaries of any appointive city official or employee, it is intended to apply only to outside work, councilmen said.

VOTERS DOOM NEW LIQUOR PROGRAM

Straw Ballot Ends with Local Option Gaining Favor Here

Orange county will vote heavily against Proposition No. 3, creating a new state liquor commission. The Journal's poll of liquor sentiment showed today in a final tabulation.

Reason: neither vets nor drunks like the plan. Support for local option, which lagged far behind in the first week of balloting, developed strongly today and threatened to overwhelm the straw vote against option, as the balloting ended today.

Dry Votes Appear
Whereas sentiment last week showed two-to-one against the local option measure, No. 9, today it stood 23 votes for local option and 27 against.

Drys are emphatic in their view that the state liquor commission, if created, would make conditions worse than any under the state board of equalization, and that graft and control of the state by liquor interests would be furthered. Representatives of liquor dealers' organizations haven't had much to say on the proposition, but the average voter who is opposed to local option is also opposed to the new commission.

Final Tally
Plenty of people who think the new commission would be bad, nevertheless desire a change in liquor administration.

Today's standings in The Journal's poll show 23 in favor of local option and 27 opposed; six in favor of the new liquor commission and 40 opposed; and 21 for leaving liquor control as it is, with 30 asking some change.

MOVIE SHOWS NEWSPAPER 'SCOOP'

Film Shown Here Reveals
How Facts Gathered and Published

It's Newspaper Week. And if there's anything going on in the Fourth Estate you can't find out by reading The Journal or visiting The Journal offices, run down to the Broadway theater Thursday, Friday or Saturday.

There you can get the inside dope from a Pete Smith novelty, "Behind the Headlines" being run in conjunction with the regular bill.

This novel short subject starts with a "scoop" in a current newspaper, and then traces it back, showing the detailed work required to get it into the headlines. Its action embraces the operations of a great newspaper plant from the editorial rooms to the press room. This particular scoop actually was "run through" a typical modern newspaper plant during its filming.

And this particular film is valuable in its accuracy, because the man who wrote it, Duffy Cornell, and who plays the part of the city editor, is an old-time newspaper man who knows the ropes.

It'll give you a new slant on the newspaper of today.

ROEMER CHECKS ON WEATHER

Charles Roemer, post graduate student at Santa Ana Junior college, has been placed in charge of the jaysee weather bureau for the second consecutive year, H. O. Russell, engineering department head, said today.

The bureau is located on the roof of the board of education building, where it was moved from the high school two years ago.

Through the use of $400 worth of meteorological equipment an attempt will be made this year to establish the first complete annual report of local weather, Roemer announced.

Another objective will be the collection of statistics in an effort to learn more about the destructive desert winds are common to this area.

++ Our Presidents ++ Administration of James Polk was an Era of Boundary Expansion

Each of our presidents established principles of government. Our present American Democracy is based upon the principles established by our presidents and their political associates. The purpose of this series of sketches is to point out those American principles.—Robert Gardner. Today's sketch tells about James K. Polk.—Editor.)

James Knox Polk was a brilliant orator. He was called the "Napoleon of the Stump." The 1844 platform concerned the question of admitting Texas to the union. Resisting British claims to the Northwest and the Oregon territory were also planks. Polk was positive, and Clay and the Whigs were suave and evaded the issue, so Polk won by a small margin.

After the Mexican war $15,000,000 was paid for what now includes Arizona, part of Colorado and part of Nevada. California was also in this purchase. It was during Polk's term that an agreement was reached on the Oregon boundary. The West was ready for expansion. Gold was discovered in California during his term and the fields were opened up, people starting to move west.

Since he was elected on the Texas-Oregon issues, he acted boldly and through his political help, Texas was admitted to the union.

He demanded respect from Mexico and England. National respect was the keynote of his administration. His policy settled the disputed boundaries and added more territory to the United States.

Biographical Data

Born Nov. 2, 1795, he was the son of Samuel Polk, a farmer and surveyor, and Jane Knox. Educated at the University of North Carolina, he was a lawyer and a Presbyterian. He was married in 1824 to Sarah Childress. In the election, he received 170 electoral votes. He died June 15, 1849.

New Deal Security Plan Is Called Hoax; Pennsylvania Listed in Doubtful Column

The Journal conducts this forum so that its readers may receive full and authoritative information upon the issues of the presidential campaign. Horace C. Head, chairman of the county Democratic campaign committee, and E. Z. McKinney are in charge of that party's contributions. Howard Irwin, head of the Republican county central committee, and Dr. W. E. Dixon are contributing their party's articles.—Editor's note.

By THE REPUBLICANS

Why not accept the President's challenge to clarify the real problem for the American public?

Social security is one of those real problems. Candidate Roosevelt recognizes it. It must not be one of those false issues against which the President wars.

Agreeing, then, that social security is one of the important problems, how shall it be obtained? By the Roosevelt method or by the Landon method?

Mr. Roosevelt has a social security law, so-called, that was jammed through congress in such haste that scarcely any of the congressmen or senators read it through. It aptly has been called, "a collection of statistics in an effort to learn more about the destructive desert winds are common to this area."

Unwieldy and disjointed as it is, there is nothing vague about how this New Deal act proposes to get the money to support its employment features and its old age pensions.

Would Cut Salaries

To build up the fund to pay the pensions it levies a payroll tax. Both employers and employees must pay this tax. It is, therefore, a tax on employment, on jobs. The more persons an employer hires, the greater the tax he will have to pay. The natural effect of this scheme will be to decrease the number of jobs and hold wages and salaries down. This, at the same time other New Deal experiments are forcing up consumer prices on wage earners.

Governor Landon suggests a revised old age pension plan financed by ear-marked funds. He contends that whatever taxes are used for the purpose should be direct and visible so every citizen may know exactly what pensions are costing. He places a main emphasis on aid to the aged; secondary emphasis on unemployment insurance, a complicated problem that needs careful research. He is opposed to making social security dependent upon a tax on jobs.

Governor Landon favors actual

By THE DEMOCRATS

"The general impression here is that you do not look like a President, do not talk like one, and do not act like one."

Thus Charles W. Carroll, organizer of the Young Republicans in Pennsylvania addressed Gov. Landon by wire in relation to the Republican muddle there.

The controversy arose from the fact that Gifford Pinchot, erstwhile Progressive, in an effort to help his old-time Bull Moose friends, attempted and Knox attempted to consolidate the old Mellon-Vare-Grundy machine in Pennsylvania with the Progressive group, to the advantage of the Old Guard and to the disadvantage of the Progressives.

Apparently Mr. Pinchot, recalling that the Bull Moose ticket carried Pennsylvania in 1912, when it was the most reactionary state in the union, and that that success was due to an alliance between the Old Guard and the Progressives, attempted to again weld a similar coalition in behalf of the Republicans.

Corrupt Alliance
In 1912 George W. Perkins, member of the steel trust, then a strong factor in Pennsylvania politics, was likewise a member of the firm of J. P. Morgan and company, was treasurer of the Bull Moose national committee, and he helped to line up the Old Guard with the Bull Moosers.

The possible success of the Republican ticket in Pennsylvania depends upon the Republican majority in Philadelphia. In that city a corrupt alliance of "big business," machine politics and the underworld, has heretofore enabled them to return whatever majority might be required to carry the state.

The Progressives complained that Pinchot had made a deal resulting in their sale down the river, and asked for the intervention of Gov. Landon, without results. That is one of the reasons security instead of promises; a workable plan as a substitute for a hoax.

G. O. P. RALLY TO BE HELD THURSDAY

Landon-Knox Club Will Be Formed; War Vet
to Give Address

Organization of a "Landon-Knox Sunflower Club for the Winning of the West" will be effected by Orange county Republicans at a rally in Birch park, Santa Ana, Thursday at 7:30 p. m. when J. A. "Jack" Moore, World war veteran and globe-trotting newspaperman, appears as principal speaker.

Moore is one of three speakers sent to California by the Republican national committee, to organize the sunflower clubs. After seeing war service in both France and Siberia, and returning to his newspaper work, Moore traveled on every known continent and witnessed governmental upheavals that swept democracies aside in the back-wash of the war. His theme Thursday evening, it is said, will concern "New Deal efforts to supplant our government of laws with a government of men."

Orange county officers will be elected for the local club at the rally. The park is equipped with loud speaker, lights and music facilities. National headquarters in Chicago has mailed 1500 letters to Orange county citizens, inviting their attendance at the rally.

why Pennsylvania, which has not gone Democratic in a presidential election in three-quarters of a century, is now placed in the doubtful column.

'International Bum' Relates His Travels at First Junior Ebell Meeting

Social Hour Follows Session

Officers, Chairmen, New Members Are Introduced

"Go as far as you can and then see what the future has to offer—it usually has something up its sleeve."

That is the "philosophy of the vagabond" as expounded last night for Junior Ebell club members by Jerome Roberts, self-styled "international bum," rumbly seat stow-away to Honolulu, world traveler and author.

It all started in 1933, when, out of school and out of a job, and with time on his hands, Mr. Roberts made the acquaintance of Dave Winn, world famous vagabond traveler, who had been all over the world without any money.

Roberts' first attempt was Honolulu, stowing away with another young man in the rumble seat of an automobile which was being shipped to the islands, and arriving, after five days without food and in utter darkness, only to be arrested and their sentences suspended on condition that they return to California.

Not discouraged, however, the young man departed some time later, with 100 dollars in his pocket, for Japan, purchasing a steamer ticket on a Japanese liner for 45 dollars and spending two weeks in the hold of the ship. In Japan, he and his companion, a friend whose final destination was England, found rooms for three dollars a month and mingled with the younger student set of Japan, finding themselves and all American young people the envy of the young Orientals, with the greater freedom and opportunities for natural living afforded them.

To the Philippines
When it turned cold, their thoughts turned to more equatorial lands, and they purchased a $15 ticket with 100 dollars in his pocket, for the Philippines, being arrested as spies when found sleeping on the beach on a stopover in Formosa, but finally arriving in their chosen islands and finding refuge with a Scotch resident.

Stowing away to France, featured only by four-day incarceration in a blistering steel cell and hard labor all the rest of the way over, was Mr. Roberts' next experience—then days of hunger, cold, and pursuit by the gendarmes (because he lost his passport), and finally making his way as a stowaway to England where he again found Dave Winn and wrote a book, "World Vagabond," which is soon to be published in this country.

The speaker was presented by Mrs. C. Harold Dale, program chairman following the business meeting, the first of the new year, presided over by Mrs. Crawford Nalle.

Mrs. Nalle introduced her officers and chairmen and presented nine new members to the club—Mrs. Emrys White, Jr., and the Misses Marie Brownridge, Natalie Neff, Betty Smiley, Mary Tuthill, Betty Jane Moore, Caro Cogan, Elizabeth Downie, and Margaret Sawyer.

Section announcements were also made, Mrs. Charles McDaniel, Jr., the club curator, reporting formation of a new garden section, to meet at 3 p. m., Oct. 22 at the McDaniel home, 2116 North Ross street. All interested in joining are invited.

Junior Conclave
Mrs. J. Russell Wilson announced the convocation of the Southern District, California Federation of Women's club juniors, to be held Oct. 17 and 18 in Fontana, and ten delegates were named by the club. These were the Mesdames Albert Harvey, Raymond Terry, Charles McDaniel, J. R. Wilson, Leland Auer, Lee Smith, Calvin Flint, Herbert Stroschein, Crawford Nalle, and Miss Betty Smith. Four alternates, Mrs. Arthur Wade, Mrs. Q. L. Hardy, Mrs. G. Stanley Norton, and Mrs. LeRoy Burns.

Mrs. Herbert Stroschein was named as chairman of the November dance. Judge J. B. Tucker was introduced and spoke a few words on the Community Chest drive, and Mrs. Emrys D. White, junior advisor, who is working in the campaign, and Mrs. Lee Smith, who is assisting her, also spoke, naming the Junior members who were helping.

MRS. SPIZZY AND MUSICIANS ENTERTAIN CLUB

Mexico, with its colorful music and costumes, inspired yesterday's meeting of the Musical Arts club, held at the Doris Kathryn tea shop. Mexican serapes, bright shawls, and baskets made by the people of that southern country transformed their room into an appropriate setting for the affair.

The program was arranged by Mrs. Mabel Spizy, county schools supervisor of music, with the assistance of the Trio Mexico.

Mrs. Spizy, herself, who recently spent some time in Mexico, appeared in three beautiful costumes during her interesting program, including in her wardrobe the colorful Chino Poblano costume worn by the Mexican dancers.

These, and the serapes and folk songs which added to the interest of the afternoon, were described in detail by the speaker, who joined the trio in singing the favorite songs of the Mexican people.

Among the numbers played and sung by the musicians were "La Cucaracha," "Las Mananitas" (a birthday serenade), "La Sandunga," "Bamba," "Ala en el Rancho Grande" (which corresponds to the American cowboy songs), "Cielita Lindo," and "La Golondrina" (the Mexican "Home Sweet Home").

Singing this last number as they left the room, the program was brought to a beautiful close with the gradual dying away in the distance of their lovely music.

The next meeting, in two weeks, is to be an evening affair, with an interesting speaker, the date and place to be announced later.

Star Chapter Birthday Marked

Harking back across a span of almost half a century, to the days when Hermosa chapter was organized 47 years ago, this group of Eastern Star members chose an old-fashioned theme for their birthday dinner party Monday night in the Masonic temple.

Checkered table cloths, dishes not to be found among today's table appointments, and a centerpiece of the old standby, sunflowers, were collected for the dining room, where a gala pot-luck meal preceded the evening program. A huge birthday cake with 47 candles led the honors of the occasion.

In charge of the dinner arrangements were Mrs. Lois Pearson, chairman, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pope, Mrs. Lenore Farmer, Miss Alice Pannell, Mrs. Eula Pannell, Mrs. Eleanor Redmond, Mrs. Maude Pierce and Mrs. Fannie Nau.

Past matrons and past patrons of the chapter, who filled the stations for the evening, were the honored guests, and were presented with gifts by the chapter, the women receiving little utility bags made by Miss Henrietta Bohling, present worthy matron, and the men pen and pencil sets. Those filling the chairs during the meeting, after dinner were Mrs. Vera Jacoby, who acted as worthy matron; Dr. Cassius Paul, worthy patron; Mrs. John McCormac, associate matron; Roy Shafer, associate patron; Mrs. Marie Beisel, conductress; Mrs. Grace Wilson, associate conductress; Mrs. John Bohlander, secretary; Mrs. Grace Finn, treasurer; Mrs. Nell Neighbour, marshal; Mrs. Minnie Holmes, chaplain; Mrs. Leilah Jones, organist; Mrs. Ida Dumphy, Ada; Mrs. Marion Wallace, Ruth; Mrs. Irene Mitchell, Esther; Mrs. Emma Jean Trueblood, Martha; Mrs. Lois Ostermann, Electra; Mrs. Martha Whitson, warder.

Escort Honors Accorded
Each of these, and Mrs. Jeanette Tarpley, district deputy grand matron, were escorted into the hall, and also the visiting 1936 matrons and patrons from other chapters.

These latter included Mrs. Flora Bruns of Santa Ana chapter; Mrs. Gwen Thompson, Orange; Mrs. Mabel Lambert, Laguna Beach; Mrs. Ina Lyles, Yorba Linda; Mrs. Jean McAdams, Huntington Beach; Joe French, Ontario, and Dave Todd, Huntington Beach.

One of the highlights of the evening was the singing of a welcome song to the matrons and patrons by Mrs. Pearl Livesay, her own composition.

Mrs. Irene Mitchell, representing the County Past Matron association, and John McCormac, the past patron, gave talks of appreciation; and Martha Medlock, one of the charter members, was presented.

The entertainment for the evening was provided in part by the White Shrine drill team members, who, as "The Nonpareil Adventure," did an eccentric dance. Miss Lorie Buell, assistant teacher of the Putnam school of dancing, presented Spanish dances and a clog; and Elda Rodeffer and Alma Wright, of the Fullerton White Shrine, did Dutch dance numbers.

Election of officers will feature the next meeting, which will be the first fall meeting. A covered dish dinner will also precede this session. The next regular meeting night will be dark.

Woman's Club Topic Is Sculpture

Women expressed little artistic ability before the 1876 Centennial, according to Mrs. James G. McCracken who yesterday, as program chairman for the Santa Ana Woman's club meeting, traced the history of women sculptors in the United States from their earliest beginnings.

Her talk, which proved of much value and interest to her hearers, took the subject back before the Centennial, when Harriet Hosmer and her "Sleeping Fawn" were outstanding in the women's sculpture field, and brought it up to the present, showing the marked increase in the last 30 or 40 years.

After the war, she pointed out, there was new freedom of art, which started to express joyous exuberance and creative impulse. The work of the sculptors of the period showed also a vast knowledge of anatomy.

Anna Coleman Ladd made masks of wounded soldiers; Janet Scudder, who ranks near the top, is most famous for her "Frog Fountain" and as the first American woman to have a work accepted by the Luxembourg Museum; Gertrude Vanderbilt, Edith Woodman, Maude Daggett of the Peter Pan room in the Pasadena Children's library; Martha Oathout Ayers of Laguna Beach, known for figures of the sea; and many others.

Also among the moderns mentioned were Anna Vaughn Hyatt, whose "Work Horses at Dinner" ranks as her masterpiece among her animal models and whose "Joanne d'Arc" is a work of art; and Malvina Hoffman, whose outstanding work includes the head models of all races done for Field Museum in Chicago and her book, "Heads and Tales."

Sections Announced
Mrs. F. A. Martin presided over the meeting during which Mrs. R. A. McMahon and Mrs. William Whitehead reported on the Southern District meeting here last week; and the following announcements were made:

Study section will meet at 2 p. m. Friday at the home of Mrs. A. C. Keck, 205 South Flower street.

Poetry section will meet Tuesday, October 13, at 10 a. m. at the home of Mrs. Margaret Church, 606 South Main street. The craft section will meet October 14 for pot-luck luncheon with Mrs. E. A. Elwell, 907 Lowell street. Those attending are asked to call Mrs. Elwell, phone 3719-W.

The program following the business was introduced by a period of delightful Hawaiian music furnished by Wayne Hoffman's PWA Hawaiian orchestra. Their numbers included "Song of the Islands," "On the Beach at Waikiki," "Don't Say Aloha When I Go," "Red Sails in the Sunset," and "Aloha."

GIRLS' EBELL INVITED TO TIMMONS HOME

To Miss Betty Timmons, Miss Jean Dowds, and Miss Barbara Speed go the honors this time of hosting a meeting of Girls' Ebell, the members being invited to the Howard Timmons home on Red Hill at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon for program and tea.

A most enjoyable afternoon is anticipated with the planned appearance of the Burke sisters, four talented local singers and dancers, who will entertain after the business meeting. Miss Virginia Curry will sing, and Mrs. Fred Rowland, senior Ebell president, Mrs. Emrys D. White, advisor, and Mrs. John Tessmann and Mrs. M. E. Wellington, co-advisors, will be among the guests.

Mary Stoddard Writer Sees Constructive Love as the Greatest Need of Men and Women

By MARY STODDARD

I sometimes think it would do us all good to sit down with a pencil and paper and try to express our ideas of what life is, and what we want out of it. It would give us a clear standard of how to conduct ourselves in the present, and a goal for the future—and maybe with an expressed creed, we wouldn't find ourselves in such predicaments and troubles as often occur out of the blind pursuit of pleasure.

Here is a letter I received today which attempts to do this, and I would suggest that we all carry out the idea privately:

Dear Miss Stoddard: I have read so many letters dealing with triangular love affairs in your column that I feel a tremendous urge to express a little of what Life and Love mean to me.

Why are we as women, so willing to accept a counterfeit love? Life is based on Principle of Truth and Love of Good and when these are infringed upon, there is only one thing to expect—disappointment and desolation.

Why should we be willing to accept from any man what is not his to give? If his love has already been pledged to another, if he is not big enough to take stock in his own home which he pledged to give to another, then let us be in the name of common sense can another woman expect to improve him?

There is nothing to start on. I have seen women sympathizing with these misunderstood men while their own husbands were starting for a kind word and understanding. It is really very amusing if it were not so deadly serious. The world needs constructive love. This is a task that only women can handle. The average man seems so weak in the face of flattery.

A banding together in Loyalty and Truth to preserve the real values of life, for genuine happiness and peace, comes only from right thinking and living.

"INTERESTED."

Luncheon Has Mexican Motif

Colorful fruits and vegetables arranged on a blue-green Mexican glass plaque from Mexico City formed a unique centerpiece for a luncheon given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Felton Browning for her bridge club.

Against the deep blue color of the glass, the red of tomatoes and radishes, the glowing purple of eggplant, the silver of onions and the green of chow-chow and mint gave a striking and characteristic Mexican effect. Table service was in Mexican ware.

Mrs. Brad Hellis received high prize at contract. Other guests and club members were Mrs. Robert Bartholomew, Mrs. Hugh Plumb, Mrs. James Rice, Mrs. Roy Browning, Mrs. Clarence Nisson, and Mrs. Mabel Prescott.

P-T. A. COUNCIL HEARS DRIVE REPORTS

Showing progress in each of the fifteen units of the Santa Ana Parent-Teacher council, the city P-T. A. membership drive was reported well on toward its goal of 1600 members when the chairman gave their reports at the council meeting yesterday.

Mrs. J. J. Mills, the council president, presided, and Frank Henderson, superintendent of the schools, talked on the legislation to appear on the ballot Nov. 3, also reminding the members of the bond election Oct. 22.

Reports were given by chairmen, and Mrs. Mills announced the parent education classes and the district president council in Ocean View Oct. 15. The council also went on record as commending the school board action taken in favor of health examinations for all teachers.

The next council meeting will be held Thursday, Nov. 5, instead of the first Tuesday of the month, which is election day.

Among the selections will be "The Old Rugged Cross," "Poet and Peasant," "The Lord Chord," "Ave Maria" and "In the Gloaming."

Tomorrow morning's early, musical Round-Up by Duke Martin and his boys at 6:45 on KVOE will be crammed full of early morning energy when they will sing and play "Little Brown Jug," "Kickin' Mule" (Duke Martin's own composition), "White Cockade," and others.

Y. M. C. A. Program for Boys Asks Support Through Community Chest

"Nobody knows what a boy is worth,
And the world must wait to see,
For every man in an honored place,
Is a boy that used to be."

The Y. M. C. A. realizes the essential truth of this short poem, and believes that the training of our youth in Spirit, Mind and Body is the best means of assuring the community of responsible and respectable citizens tomorrow.

Funds received from the Community Chest are used to make up the deficit in Boys' activities, for boys do not have the money to pay the full cost of services rendered to them. The dormitory and the men's athletic classes are entirely self-supporting—in fact dues and rentals amount to more than half of the total cost of the institution.

We must ask the public for gifts through the Community Chest to enable us to render a character-training service to the Boys of Santa Ana.

RUBINOFF ON AIR TONIGHT

"Stompin' at the Savoy," high-ranking swing tune of the current season, will be played by Rubinoff and his orchestra on the "Musical Moments" program tonight at 7 o'clock and scheduled Mondays and Wednesdays at that hour. As guest soloist Rubinoff will present Jan Pierce, tenor, singing "Had You But Known."

On the strings of his Stradivarius the maestro will render his interpretation of a song at the peak of its popularity several months ago, "I'm Getting Sentimental Over You." A new novelty tune, "What's This," will round out the program.

BASS VIOL IS INSULTED

Report Spells It 'Vile'

Something queer about the proper term for "bull fiddle." Clarence Ewing, 501 East Fourth street, started the whole business over the week-end, when a bass viol was reported stolen from his car at Sunset Beach. Sheriff's officers were puzzled about the fiddle's whereabouts, but they also wondered about the spelling. "Bass viol" got spelled three times in records—all different.

One newspaper story about the theft had it "bass viol." The Journal's story was originally "viol," but two letters got mixed somehow and it turned out "viol."

But Deputy Sheriff Bill Young took the gold-plated dictionary and his prize.

His report called it "base vile."

19TH HOLE FOR STUDENTS

University Buys Golf Club

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Louisiana State University, to which the late Huey P. Long brought big buildings, and colorful football teams, is going to buy a complete country club.

The board of supervisors authorized the purchase for $25,000 of the Westdale Country club with its spacious golf course, modern clubhouse, swimming pool, tennis courts and other equipment.

Dr. James M. Smith, university president, said the purchase was made primarily to secure a golf course for the use of students. Social functions would also be held on the property. The club is located near the university campus about two miles southeast of Baton Rouge.

Opens Branch Of Berry Clinic

Milton H. Berry, jr., son of the founder of the clinic of that name at Van Nuys, today announced opening of a one-day-a-week branch in Santa Ana at 527 South Van Ness avenue.

The clinic here is for the benefit of patients who are unable to go to Van Nuys, Berry said. His clinic uses a method of muscle re-education in treating cases of infantile and spastic paralysis.
